CABLE BEACH, BROOME

Escape the winter blues and score yourself a deal with special weekend fares to Broome if booked in advance.

GANTHEAUME POINT, BROOME

Thanks to a partnership between Qantas, the State Government through Tourism WA, Australia's North West and Broome International Airport, you can now experience the majestic wonders of Broome with discounted weekend fares starting from just $179 one-way.

There's no better time to visit the town and enjoy its stunning 22km long Cable Beach, a sunset camel ride, ancient dinosaur footprints at Gantheaume Point, the world's oldest outdoor cinema, intriguing pearling history and the natural phenomena known as Staircase to the Moon. It truly is extraordinary.

The special weekend fares will be available from $199 one-way during high season and $179 during low season, when booked at least 60 days ahead of travel.

Tourism Minister Paul Papalia said while some people tended to book and travel straight away, it can be worth planning ahead and enjoying the savings.

"We know that Perth people want to travel to Broome but have often cited the cost of flights as a barrier to travelling to the historic town," Mr Papalia said.

"Now, by planning ahead, you can get flights for as little as $179 one-way depending on when you travel."

"This new initiative for weekend flights between Perth and Broome is part of a one-year trial to stimulate leisure travel to Broome."

Don't miss your chance to book a weekend getaway, or even a longer one-week stay, to experience one of WA's most iconic tourist destinations.

Broome residents are also encouraged to take up the offer for weekend travel to Perth, and explore the city's extraordinary transformation.

So plan ahead and take advantage of these flights. For more information visit Qantas.com.
